Profile

With approximately three years of work experience in developing responsive websites and striving to improve user interfaces, I have developed my specialized skills in project management, solving complex technical problems, implementing intricate designs, and strengthening team communication. I am interested in innovation and continuous learning, and I am always seeking new methods to enhance performance and user experience. I am looking for an opportunity in the field of developing high-load software, which, while providing a platform for professional growth, allows me to offer effective and innovative solutions to technical challenges with my precision and technical knowledge.

Employment History

● frontEnd developer

kaarsoon (Tehran)

Apr 2025

I joined the kaarsoon team as a Frontend Developer in June 2025.

kaarsoon operates in the field of training and human resource development for the F&B (Food and Beverage) industry.

Here, by examining various details and specializations across all branches, we try to find the best position for individuals.

The implemented features and functionalities in the project include the following:

Launching a dedicated chat between instructor and student using WebSocket technology for fast and interactive communication.

Implementing phased training, including mid-term and final exam systems for accurate assessment of student learning.

Implementing a B2B panel to provide a training platform for the education of personnel and human resources for organizations.

Enabling employers to review the progress and identify the strengths and weaknesses of personnel participating in the courses.

Implementing an event and coupon system for users, which allows companies to create events and users to purchase coupons with points, facilitating the validation and attendance process.

In addition to training, there is also the possibility for companies and organizations to post job advertisements.
